Three Thousand Veteran Troops Arrive in Berlin to Aid Government.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Sunday, Jan. 12.—Silesian railway station which was the last important Spartacan stronghold in greater Berlin, now is in possession of the government forces.

Berlin, Jan. 12.—Government forces have captured the police headquarters after a short bombardment.

When the fighting began the troops in all a few shells and then waited to see what effect had been made on the Spartacans. When the latter failed to show signs of yielding two men were sent forward with a white flag demanding the surrender of the Spartacans. They were fired upon and killed.

Artillery fire then was resumed. The Spartacans began to flee. The soldiers thereupon stormed the building and took several hundred prisoners. The Bolsheviks are believed to have suffered the loss of 50 killed and many wounded.

Police Chief Missing.

The capture of the headquarters was effected early Sunday morning. In the bombardment the government troops used 10.5 centimeter field pieces.

The real revolutionary headquarters for the entire insurgent campaign had been in this building and its capture leaves the revolutionists without any important stronghold in greater Berlin excepting the Silesian railway station and the Boetow Brewery which they have strongly fortified. Police chief Eickhorn was not among the prisoners taken by the government troops. This is being sought all around the building late last evening and machine gun fire was opened against the Spartacans soon after midnight.

The defenders replied energetically and for some time were able to keep the machine guns going by replacing the guns which the fire of the government forces put out of commission. The artillery fire began at 4 o'clock in the morning and the fire of the defenders gradually died away and ceased entirely after fifty five shells had been sent into the building.

The attacking party in the final assault used gas and threw hand grenades and stormed the building from two sides. The number of Spartacans pulled out of hiding places by the troops and disarmed are located on the Silesian railway station.

Spartacans Cheer Liebknecht.

Some of the captured Spartacans began cheering for Dr. Liebknecht as they were being marched through the streets but the soldiers shut their mouths in summary fashion. The soldiers, except those left to guard the building, returned to their barracks with bands playing and their men singing, while the mediocrity of the looting around the Alexander Platz who had been living in terror of their lives for a week during which time the Spartacan domination of the whole district had been undisputed, cheered the victorious troops.

Three thousand loyal troops marched in Saturday from Liebknecht. They were received by the citizens with relief and great tears. It was such a reception as would be given soldiers arriving to relieve a city occupied by an enemy.

They were mainly younger troops from the front wearing iron crosses and medals showing that a great many of them had been wounded from one to five times. They maintained their old discipline. Officers wearing shoulder straps and carrying rifles. The troops brought field guns and scores of machine guns.

Troops Seek Fight.

The troops expressed indignation against the Spartacans. They appeared to be thirsting for a fight, having volunteered for duty in the city.

It is understood that about 20,000 men are ready to march into Berlin. It is learned that the troops exacted as an condition that they would not be interfered with by the government and would be allowed to do as they pleased in the city.

British in Dusseldorf.

Copenhagen, Sunday, Jan. 12.—British troops have been ordered to Dusseldorf, which has been in the hands of the Spartacans, according to a report from Berlin.

Dusseldorf is situated on the right bank of the Rhine twenty-one miles northwest of Cologne.

Armistice is Broken.

London, Sunday, Jan. 12.—The armistice between the contending factions at Berlin has been broken, according to Copenhagen advices received here. Spartacans are still in possession of part of the Tageblatt building, it is said.

Reports from Berlin indicate, it is reported, that the Spartacan forces have lost 1,300 killed since the outbreak of the revolution and that there are many of them wounded.

Government Holdings Said to Be Small With Exception of Lumber

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 13.—Representatives of government agencies meeting the principal business leaders here recently to develop uniform methods of procedure in disposing of surplus stocks of building material, found the war industry board announced today that with the exception of lumber, government holdings were very small and could not affect market conditions.

OFFICIALS UNABLE TO EXPLAIN CAUSE OF NEW YORK WRECK

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS CONCERNING COLLISION NEAR BATAVIA ARE MADE.

TWENTY-ONE KILLED

Thirteen Bodies At Undertaking Establishment Remain Unidentified.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Batavia, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Officials of the New York Central railroad were today continuing their investigation of the wreck at South Byron yesterday in which 21 persons were killed, and attempts were renewed to identify the 13 bodies still in Batavia undertaking establishments. Railroad officers who had spent Sunday investigating conflicting statements regarding the collision of the Southwestern Limited with the rear sleepers on the Western line Limited, this morning announced that they could give no explanation for the cause of the wreck. List of the dead this morning follows:

Franklin E. Leonard, Bear Lake, Mich.

S. C. Harvey, address unknown.

Ballard Jones, New York City, porter on sleeper.

Captain F. Stead-Jimines, New York City, identification doubtful.

Thomas F. Cummins, New York City.

George F. Bigby, New York City.

Patrick Dougherty, New York City.

Mrs. Jennie Levening, New York City.

The three persons seriously injured in the wreck are in the Batavia hospital. Physicians hold out little hope for the recovery of Miss Flora Dougherty of FULTON, Mich., but Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lichterman of New York City will recover.

Grand Haven, Mich., Jan. 13.—The man listed among the victims of the Wolverine wreck at South Byron, N. Y., as S. D. Harvey, is Herman Harvey of this city. He was wearing an inscribed ring belonging to his brother, Sergeant S. D. Harvey, who died recently.

GREGORY RESIGNS FROM CABINET; PAY IS NOT SUFFICIENT

Washington, Jan. 13.—Attorney General Gregory will retire from the cabinet March 4, to return to the practice of law. His resignation, announced last night at the White House, was cable to President Wilson on Thursday, and accepted.

Mr. Gregory had long considered returning to private life because of pecuniary responsibilities. The secretary general has made no definite plans for the future.

WILSON URGES HASTE ON FOOD RELIEF BILL

Washington, Jan. 13.—President Wilson has sent an urgent message to the Senate, asking it to pass the food relief bill as soon as possible. The bill, which would authorize the government to take over the production and distribution of food, is a key measure in the fight against the food shortage.

Robert W. Woolley Favors Operating of Roads by Government

Washington, Jan. 13.—Commissioner Robert W. Woolley, the one member of the interstate commerce commission who supports the operation of railroads by the government, today urged the Senate to pass a bill authorizing the government to take over the operation of the railroads.

He blamed the present rate structure for many of the country's transportation evils and declared it "unscientific, illogical and laden with preferential treatment."

Reviewing accomplishments of the federal administration, Mr. Woolley said the $196,000,000 deficit of the railroads under federal control would be charged as a war cost and deducted out of the United States treasury.

$26,900,000 "PORK" BILL PASSES HOUSE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 13.—The House today passed 228 to 91 the river and harbor bill carrying $26,900,000.

An effort by Representative Fear of Wisconsin to send the bill back to committee with instructions that only $12,000,000 be carried for continuing existing improvements, was defeated.

Darlington Girl Will Spend Year in Orient; Sails This Month

Miss Marguerite Samuels, daughter of J. J. Samuels of Darlington, will sail for Japan from San Francisco on January 22 in company with Mr. and Mrs. George Grauer and little son of Chicago on the "Hingyo Maru," a liner of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha line. She will go to Hong Kong, China, where Mr. Grauer's business interests take him.

For the past year Miss Samuels has been secretary of one of the attaches at the Italian embassy at Washington.

PADEREWSKI IS NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED BY ASSASSIN'S SHOT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Geneva, Jan. 12.—Ignace Jan Paderewski, the Polish leader, was only slightly wounded in the attack made upon him by a would-be assassin at Warsaw, according to a telegram received by friends here today.

He is continuing his work with Gen. Joseph Pilsudski on the reconstruction of the Polish government, and is planning measures against the Bolsheviks.

Boat Owners Refuse to Submit Their Side for Board Decision

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 13.—The national war labor board, convened by cable request of President Wilson, decided today over the objections of private harbor boat owners to make a finding in the dispute between employers and crews which resulted last week in a strike of 16,000 men.

Hearings were opened by the national war labor board in an attempt to adjust the differences which caused 16,000 members of the Maritime Workers' union to go out on strike last Thursday, when the Boat Owners' association declined to submit to arbitration the question of an eight hour working day for the men.

BOLSHEVKI SUSPECTS IN SO. AMERICA

CIVILIAN GUARDS IN BUENOS AIRES PATROL STREETS; DISPERSE CROWDS.

150 ARE ARRESTED

Among Those Under Detention Are Important Office-Holders, Including Chief of Police.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Buenos Aires, Jan. 13.—At four o'clock this morning it was stated at police headquarters that no serious clashes had been reported anywhere since ten o'clock last night. Civilian guards with rifles and drawn revolvers patrolled the city Sunday, breaking up crowds and arresting suspicious characters. It is announced that 150 persons suspected of being implicated in a Bolshevik movement aimed at the overthrow of the government had been arrested. Among those under detention are important office-holders, including the chief of police and other important positions.

Guards Fired Upon.

Patrols of guards were fired upon several times from buildings during the night. The guards fired back, but no one was hurt. During the evening a "repentant" anarchist confessed, according to the military authorities, that there had been a plot to destroy the Plaza hotel for the purpose of killing an American whose name has not been announced. A machine gun company was sent to the hotel, which houses the families of several American business men on missions here.

There was limited street car service on Sunday.

Reports from the interior indicate that the Maximalist movement is spreading to the principal cities, notably Rosario, where a general strike was called Sunday morning. The Western railway is tied up by a strike which began at midnight. Troops have been sent by Gen. Dellepaine to requisition the arms in a number of privately owned gun shops, thus preventing them from falling into the hands of the anarchists.

Reports from Montevideo say that the authorities there are strengthening their forces against the Bolshevik movement. Several troops have been thrown around Villa de Cerro, localizing strike disorders to that district where there are American packing houses.

Rosario, Argentina, Jan. 13.—Severe fighting occupied at a sugar refinery here yesterday following the declaration of a general strike. The number of strikers has not been reported. Several street cars have been burned by mobs.

"League of Nations Unnecessary at This Time," Says Sterling

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 13.—Discussing the proposed league of nations Senator Sterling of South Dakota, republican, in a speech today said that in view of present and prospective resolutions between the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy such a league was unnecessary and that its consideration should be postponed.

"The relations and mutual purposes of the allied nations are such as themselves continue a perfect guarantee against war but themselves and reasonable guarantee of the peace of the world," Senator Sterling said.

DRY MEASURE WILL OVERSHADOW OTHER LEGISLATIVE PROBLEMS

FEDERAL AMENDMENT WILL GO
BEFORE SENATE ON WEDNESDAY.

WANT REFERENDUM

Two League of Nations Resolutions Will Be Introduced in Upper House Tuesday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Jan. 13.—The Wisconsin legislature faces two big legislative propositions this week. Both of these will be considered in the state senate, where the wheels of action are already in motion.

On Tuesday, the senate will consider two resolutions, one by Senator A. J. Pullen, Fond du Lac and the second by Senator Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire on the league of nations plan.

On Wednesday the senate will consider the federal prohibition amendment.

Resolutions Are Similar.

The two league of nations resolutions are the same in sentiment. The difference is in phrasing. Senator Wilcox is anxious to get an early expression on the matter so that the resolution may be telegraphed to the president. The Wilcox resolution was suggested by the League to Enforce Peace of which former President William H. Taft is president. It declares in favor of a league of nations, "of which the United States shall be a member" and declares that such a league "should aim at promoting the liberty, progress and orderly development of the world; that it should clinch the victory won at such terrible sacrifice by having the united potential force of all its members as a standing menace against the nation that seeks to upset the peace of the world."

The plan of the republican leaders is to get the matter off the calendar as soon as possible. It is said that there will be amendments offered to the resolution to make it more definite.

The second big senate issue is the federal prohibition amendment. The league favoring the prohibition amendment is headed by Senator George B. Skogmo, River Falls. Tuesday evening a "ratification" meeting will be held here to be addressed by W. J. Bryan and Gov. Charles S. Whitman, New York.

Wets Are Active.

Meantime the wets are active. A proposition will be offered on Wednesday to submit the question to a vote of the people at the April election. The wets point out that this will bring a full expression from the people of the state as to whether they desire the prohibition amendment.

The prohibition amendment to the federal constitution submitted by Secretary of State Hull reads:

"Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation therefrom from any State, Territory, or possession subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes, is hereby prohibited."

The prohibition contest over-shadows all other legislative issues at the present time. The prohibition amendment is a stumbling block in the legislature until it has been disposed of. Senator Skogmo intends to get action on the resolution in the senate this week.

Rescue of Crew of Castalia Has Started; Two Lost in Attempt

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hallifax, N. S., Jan. 13.—Wireless dispatches from vessels standing by the United States shipboard steamer Castalia, which has been in distress off the coast of Nova Scotia since early Saturday morning, brought news that the rescue operation was under way.

Out of the whole it was hoped to frame some concrete proposition representing the best ideas of the American delegation. These men have not been able to do so.

Naturally those studying the problems turn to the proceedings of the Hague conferences, particularly the second, and it probably will be found when the present peace congress gets under way that a great deal of the structure of that conference will be utilized. It is probable that the investigation of disputes before a year's investigation of war. This latter feature is one of the very definite things that Mr. Wilson is understood to have in mind.

WILSON ATTENDS "Y" MEETING IN FRANCE

The United States department of labor is making every effort to find jobs for discharged soldiers and sailors. Demobilization comes at a time, when under normal conditions, the call for labor is at its peak.

All welfare organizations as well as the government employment service are bending every effort to obtain employment for the men who have to remove the khaki and blue for civilian garb.

The Janesville Gazette desires to do its part in aiding those who wish to go to work. It will open its classified page to all discharged soldiers and sailors who wish to insert an advertisement. There will be no charge. Send or bring your copy to the Gazette office.

FIRST PEACE SESSIONS UNDER WAY

GROUND WORK OF STRUCTURE WHICH WILL LATER BE PRESENTED, BEING LAID.

PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

American Delegation Makes No Changes in Their Plans for League of Nations.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Jan. 13.—The first business before the supreme war council when it reassembled this afternoon was the settlement of the question of representation in the first session of the inter-allied conference. It has developed that China will not be represented by Japan but will have her own delegation.

Efforts of the French press to bring the front the question of status of entrants and American troops to Russia and the advisability of sending such troops into Poland to check the Bolsheviks have been without success so far. The United States, it is said, will not consent to accept in principle or as a military policy the fear of using American forces in Poland at all or in Russia in larger numbers than already are employed.

Paris, Jan. 13.—The first actual session of the peace congress is being held today, although it is officially designated as the day for laying the ground work for the structure which will later be presented to the formal assembly of the delegates of all the nations.

These conversations will take up details of the program to be carried out at the meetings. The roles of expert advisers and the order in which various matters will be considered. Tomorrow's meeting will probably deal with the important question of the organization by which the peace congress will function. It is toward a decision on one question—whether the sessions will be open or secret.

American Plan Unchanged.

Nothing has developed to alter the statement that the American delegates are primarily concerned with the making of a just peace. Territorial ambitions, local quarrels and rivalry for economic advantage are among the things which are not in the minds of the Americans who are concerned only with the assurance that these details, when worked out, will square with the principles of justice and the promotion of peace.

Reports that the American delegation has agreed on a working plan for a league of nations have been confirmed in official quarters point in the other direction. It is known that as late as President Wilson's return from Italy he was not prepared to say that he had agreed to have other plans originating among the entente delegates offered first.

Draws Tentative Plan.

At the same time it was known that Mr. Wilson has selected five men connected with the American mission, recognized experts on international law to draw up a tentative plan for a league of nations.

Out of the whole it was hoped to frame some concrete proposition representing the best ideas of the American delegation. These men have not been able to do so.

Naturally those studying the problems turn to the proceedings of the Hague conferences, particularly the second, and it probably will be found when the present peace congress gets under way that a great deal of the structure of that conference will be utilized. It is probable that the investigation of disputes before a year's investigation of war. This latter feature is one of the very definite things that Mr. Wilson is understood to have in mind.

Would Ban Qualifying Phrases.

American international lawyers are convinced that the battle of what comes in the discussion of what ever machinery is proposed to lessen the probability of war. Not all of them believe that the results of this peace congress will make it impossible for them to be sanguine that it will make armed conflicts more difficult. Their principal concern is that the structure of the agreement, whether it is called a league or a treaty, should be such that it will be framed, like The Hague conventions, in qualifying phrases, (on popular terminology "loop holes") which will make it possible for the whole structure to be dismantled.

President Wilson and his commissioners are working on the theory that Great Britain, France, Italy and the rest of the world want to prevent war, but a general agreement on broad principles. There is no reason now to change that forecast.

Orlando Returns to Italy.

Paris, Sunday, Jan. 12.—Premier Orlando of Italy left for Rome today. He will return Thursday.

Discusses Delegations.

Paris, Jan. 13.—The supreme council of the peace congress at yesterday's session took up the question of the procedure for the coming congress sessions. The discussion of the number of delegates to be sent by each nation. The proposal in the French program fixing the number variously at five, three, two and one representative, according to the part played by the nations in the war brought forth certain objections and the council adjourned without resolving it.

If the council today finishes the discussion of the questions regarding the extension of the armistice begun yesterday and reaches an agreement on the peace conference program, it is probable that the first preparatory meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon at the plenipotentiaries of the five great powers—the United States, France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan.

INTERURBAN ASKS FOR SIX CENT FARE IN CITY LIMITS

Application of the Rockford and Interurban Railway company to increase its local passenger fare in the city to six cents, has been filed with the state railway commission. According to information received this morning by City Attorney Roger C. Cunningham, the date for the hearing on the application has not been fixed but it probably will be held soon. The Janesville Traction company was granted permission to increase its fare to six cents last fall and this rate has been in effect since that time, although the Interurban company has been charging only five cents for transportation within the city limits.

TWILIGHT CLUB EAGER TO HEAR ADDRESS BY PROF. E. G. HOLDEN

Prof. E. G. Holden's "Greater Janesville" address at the Twilight club tomorrow night is awaited with great interest. What he will have to say on the development of the city will be of importance and it is for this reason that the Twilight club is holding an open meeting at eight o'clock, in order that the general public may hear his suggestions. J. A. Craig, general manager of the local plant of the General Motors Company will act as leader for the program. Members of the county board of supervisors will be guests at the supper which will be served at six-thirty at the Y. M. C. A., while the general public is invited to hear Prof. Holden's address which begins at eight o'clock. All the women of the city are invited to hear Prof. Holden speak at the Congregational church at seven o'clock tomorrow evening. He will be the guest of honor at the Loan Band supper to be served at six o'clock, and to which the officers of the Federation of Women are invited.

Prof. Holden is one of the highest expert authorities in the country on agriculture and community service as an economist. He is the author of the "Hammond Plan" and is well known in the agricultural world. He is head of the agricultural extension department of Iowa Agricultural college.

FIREMEN UNABLE TO FIND FIRE AT FIFIELD'S YARD

At 6:43 this morning the telephone rang at the west side fire station and an excited voice on the line urged the department to make a hurried run to the Fifield Lumber company. The department responded immediately with all apparatus, including the large aerial ladder.

When the department arrived at the lumber yards there was no evidence of fire anywhere. Chief Klein ordered the men to return. It was explained it was another hoax by some practical joker.

No sooner had the department got back to the station than the phone rang again, and after apologizing for making a mistake urged the men to come to the Haskins & Swartz warehouse. A quick run was made to the scene, where a detection chimney had caused a small blaze. Chemicals were used and Chief Klein stated that the damage was nominal.

Mother Offers Donation For Girls' Community Center In Memory Of Deceased Daughter

NELLIE M. CUMMINGS, DECEASED.

The first voluntary offer of funds for establishing a community center where working girls and women may spend their time in recreation and rest comes from Mrs. C. Cummings, 14 Prairie. Mrs. Cummings will give $100 toward either building a community center or establishing one in a suitable location. The gift is made in memory of her daughter, Nellie M. Cummings, who died some years ago. In speaking of the project for establishing such an institution, Mrs. Cummings, who has visited Janesville Center many times, says: "I have been impressed with the good which is done, even by the Janesville Center. I always have had a great deal of interest in safeguarding the young, especially the girls who go from their homes to a strange city. If every one could see the good which would be done through establishing a place where those away from home could have recreation and could have motherly advice when they needed it, there would be little difficulty in raising funds for such an institution."

Mrs. Cummings intimated that she might give more if the plan was started soon.

U. S. SEEKS TO GET GERMAN VESSELS TO MOVE SOLDIERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Sunday, Jan. 12.—American and British representatives will hold a conference with German admiralty authorities at Treves on Wednesday to acquire position of German and Austrian passenger ships for the transportation of troops.

It is proposed that America give Austria and Germany food for the ships. It is planned that the British will receive smaller ships for the return of troops to Australia and Canada, while America will have the big boats. If this arrangement becomes effective it will increase the flow of troops to America about 70,000 per month.

BAKER WILL NOT TAKE CHAMPION'S PLACE, IS STATEMENT OF CULLEN

SECRETARY OF FIRE AND POLICE COMMISSION BRANDS AS UNFOUNDED, RUMORS REGARDING REMOVAL OF PRESENT CHIEF.

NO CHANGE PROPOSED

Official Declares That Commission Had Made No Effort To Secure Man To Replace Present Incumbent.

"Absolutely nothing to it," said J. P. Cullen, secretary of the Fire and Police Commission when asked this morning if Henry C. Baker of Racine, was going to be the next chief of police of Janesville.

Mr. Cullen emphatically stated that Mr. Baker was not coming to Janesville and that as far as he knew the Fire and Police Commission never even thought of securing Mr. Baker's services. Mr. Cullen stated that he had no idea where the story started and that it was absolutely false.

The story of Mr. Baker's coming first gained prominence in this city about a week ago. Several conflicting stories regarding a new chief of police were circulating around the city but no authority for any of the rumors could be obtained.

Wilbur F. Carle, president of the commission, was interviewed and denied the stories and stated that no such move was contemplated by the commission.

Mr. Cullen was approached on the subject this morning and was asked, "Is Henry C. Baker, formerly Chief of Police of Racine, coming to Janesville as a successor to Chief Champion?"

"There is absolutely nothing to it," replied Mr. Cullen.

"Is a new chief of police being contemplated by the Fire and Police Commission?" Mr. Cullen was then asked.

"No such move has been mentioned at any of the meetings of the commission that I have attended," the secretary replied.

"Has the commission sought a man for the position in the past four months?" was asked the secretary.

"To the best of my knowledge no effort has been made by the Fire and Police Commission to secure a successor to Chief of Police Champion," replied Mr. Cullen.

Mr. Cullen was then asked if he had any idea where the stories originated and he again stated that he had heard the rumors himself but had paid little attention to them as he knew that no such move had been contemplated by the commission.

Chief Champion stated this morning that several times in the past few days he has heard that Chief Baker arrived and was spending a few days in the city prior to taking the position. This story was found to be without foundation also as Chief Baker is still in Racine and action of securing a new chief has caused wide-spread discussion in Janesville and it has been the topic of the day in many of the downtown places.

Chief Champion further stated that he is willing and ready to relinquish his duties as head of the Janesville Police department as soon as the commission decides to take a new chief. He has been Chief longer than any man since the late John Hogan and he stated this morning that he had done everything possible to bring the force to the highest point of efficiency. Every effort is being made to improve the department at all times.

RED CROSS NEEDS MORE WORKERS TO FINISH MONTH'S QUOTA

An appeal is sent out for extra workers this week at the workshop of the Red Cross. The quota of women's houses must be finished and sent in by Jan. 20, and that means that every one must do their part to make it possible.

The handkerchiefs must also be finished up as they are needed by the men in the front lines. An urgent call is issued for all unfinished knitted garments to be completed and returned as soon as possible. Also there is yarn for the socks which is the present need. The announcement is made that this work will probably be the last required from this department, and it should be completed in short order. Everyone who can make socks should call and get some yarn and get busy.

HEAD OF GOSSARD COMPANY RESIGNED SUDDENLY SATURDAY

Winter Test. 10 Hens Lay 8 Eggs a Day

Mr. Davis Shows How To Wake Up Laying Hens—Easily Tried.

"I have 10 hens and was getting 1 and 2 eggs a day. Since using Don Sung my hens have improved so much that I am now getting 7 and 8 eggs a day. The results have been wonderful. Henry Davis, 1324 30th St., Newport News, Va. Mr. Davis wrote this letter Feb. 1, 1918, after a severe test in the coldest weather. Try it, as he did, and watch your hens start laying and start laying more eggs."

Give your hens Don Sung and watch and that Don Sung pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides simply tell us and your money will be refunded. Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works the hen on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her more active in any weather and starts her laying.

The Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist, poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents today for a package by mail prepaid. Janesville Drug Co. 240 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

FRANCE ASKS THAT SECRET TREATIES, APPORTIONING TURKEY, BE CARRIED OUT

The Turkish empire, of which only Anatolia will remain if secret treaties are carried out.

France will ask the peace conference to approve, insofar as her rights are concerned, the secret treaties entered into between France, Russia and Britain in 1915, by the terms of which Turkey was apportioned among the three powers. These treaties provided:

- (1) Armenia to be placed under international protection.
- (2) France to get Syria, Lebanon and a strip of Armenia.
- (3) Great Britain to get Mesopotamia.
- (4) Russia to get Constantinople.
- (5) Arabia and El Hejaz to be independent states.

PRESBYTERIANS WILL MEET IN CHICAGO

Meeting Will Be Held At Congregational Church In This City On January 21 to Select Delegates.

Local Presbyterians are interested in the projected conference of pastors and representatives of 559 churches which is to be held in Chicago, Feb. 11 and 12. Rev. Melrose of this city will be one of the delegates to the convention. Meetings in six districts will be held this evening relative to the New Era movement, and on January 21, a meeting of the Presbyterian church at which time other local delegates to the conference will be selected.

The Presbyterian church last May adopted a five year advance program, arranged a joint budget of nine boards of the church and is planning to help every local congregation to do more efficient work.

The program at the Chicago meeting includes conferences for the representatives who will be selected. The leaders of the church will propose plans of work which, it is expected, will further aid the local congregations to take advantage of their opportunities.

Chamber of Commerce

A meeting of the committee of the Friendly club will be held at the office of the chamber this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Definite plans for the organizing of the club will be discussed.

J. B. Biggs, head of the Friendly club, has established a temporary office at the chamber. Mr. Biggs will be in this office each day until permanent quarters are secured.

Representatives of the Federation of Women's club will meet in conference with the board of directors at the chamber office this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

All members who are not members of the Twilight club are invited to attend the open forum of the Twilight club at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon.

William McVicar, chairman of the campaign committee of the Janesville Housing Corporation reported this morning that the campaign is progressing satisfactorily.

A conference relative to the school problem of Janesville will be held at the chamber office Wednesday evening. The city council, school board and the board of directors of the chamber will attend.

Forty Years Ago

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Jan. 13, 1879. Marshall Keating is completing a directory, containing the names of those boys who are guilty of sliding on sidewalks at public thoroughfares, and as just as they repeat the offense they will be arrested. The boys should bear this in mind and avoid trouble.

Yesterday afternoon the residence of Patrick Tracy, in the town of Centerville, was burned to the ground, causing a loss of about six hundred dollars. The fire is supposed to have originated from the chimney.

Yesterday the members of the Presbyterian church were read to them the resignation of their pastor, Rev. J. W. Sanderson. The pastor requested that action be taken within a month. It is hoped by all of Mr. Sanderson's friends that he will withdraw the resignation and remain as pastor.

The suits of F. S. Eldred and O. B. Ford against Deputy Sheriff N. J. Down of Port Atkinson, were before Justice Prichard. These suits are to recover the penalty of $260 fixed by law for refusal to give the plaintiffs copies of warrants served on them as members of the Indian Ford Water Power Co.

Captain P. H. Smith, of the Clinton Independent was a welcome caller at the Gazette office today. The captain has a host of friends here, made during his residence in Janesville and Edgerton, in antwar times.

Rev. Paville's sermon yesterday at Court street church is spoken of by many who heard it as the best he has delivered since he has been here. Mr. Paville is growing in popularity, and the society is slowly, but surely and steadily being strengthened.

KEEP THE HIGHWAYS OPEN.

With the growing use of motor cars for general transportation between the rural communities and trading centers, the necessity for keeping highways open for traffic becomes more imperative.

Farmers can see the advantage of being able to use their automobiles in the winter as well as in the summer.
It is not profitable to own a car which can be used for only a few months
each year.

Plans are on foot now for the improvement and extension of highways of the county, the work to start next summer. Why not spend some money on keeping the roads open this winter?

Not only should such a step be considered as an economic improvement,
but it would serve as a safety
measure.

For the last three months an epidemic of influenza has held the community in its grasp. It has been especially severe in the rural district.
Physicians have worked day and night to save lives. Some of them have had little sleep. Some have been handicapped by the numbers because of their profession are serving Uncle Sam.

Calls from the country come to the offices of Janesville and neighboring towns' physicians almost every hour of the day and night. They must speed to the bedside of a stricken human being as rapidly as gasoline can convey them. A few minutes delay may mean death for the victim.

The physicians in the last few weeks have been handicapped because some of the roads in this vicinity have been almost impassable.

Here is a situation which arose recently. A farmer within four or five miles of Janesville called a local doctor on the telephone, telling him that a member of the family was seriously ill, and immediate medical attention was necessary. The physician made inquiries about the conditions of the road between the city and the farmer's house. The farmer gave the information that it was almost impossible to get through by direct route.

The physician informed the farmer
that he would have to give his services if he would have to come after him and return him to the city. The farmer sent his son. The physician was driven all the way to Milton and then back several miles to the farmer's home. Then he had to be driven back to Milton and thence to Janesville. Time was wasted, and the time was precious, and which might have been utilized in attending some other person who perhaps might have been as greatly in need of medical assistance.

That is but one illustration of the need for better highways in winter.
The county board meets Tuesday.
It is probable that they cannot take action as a body, but they can get together and take the situations in their several towns and perhaps form some plan of co-operation for keeping the highways open during the remainder of the winter.

WHERE DO WE STAND?

How deeply the United States will be involved in the affairs of Europe
when the peace conference is ended is a question which is deep-seated in the minds of the thinking American people. In all the preliminary conferences, declarations and plans of allied political leaders there is an undercurrent of feeling that the United States should not interfere to any great extent in the solving of European problems.

It will be necessary for President Wilson and his peace delegates to be cautiously and with the utmost wisdom to prevent this country from becoming hopelessly tangled in the affairs of the nations across the seas.

Henry M. Hyde, writing for the Chicago Tribune, declares that the situation in Europe is not as rosy and smooth as painted in some of the dispatches which are sent over the cables. He asserts there is a tendency to suppress what men are really thinking and saying when they are not willing to be quoted.

Mr. Hyde, in writing from Paris, says: "On the eve of the opening of the peace conference there are certain facts which the American people may as well fully realize. The state
these facts bluntly will offend people who look at the world through the rose colored spectacles of idealism.
But they need to be stated because they are facts, as will be developed before the conference is over, though in the official statements they may be glossed over by the camouflage of diplomatic compliment and explanation."

In the first place there will be no league of nations which does not provide that Great Britain shall remain mistress of the seas. I have talked with many Englishmen, from peers to shop assistants. Every one of them takes it for granted that the English navy must remain predominant.

"They explain that the very life of the British empire depends on the control of the seas. Having fully provided for this purely nationalistic necessity, with an additional provision that the empire must keep the German colonies for the benefit of its dominions, Great Britain will make almost any other concessions to the idea of a league of nations."

"The talk of Secretary Daniels that if a league of nations on the Wilson plan is not achieved the United States must build incomparably the most powerful navy in the world apparently arouses only half-contentious British comment. One important
London morning newspaper said:
"Surely Mr. Daniels does not expect to persuade us to agree to the American proposals by putting this pistol
to our heads."
"Another London paper declared:
"The only fear this statement of the American secretary of the navy arouses in the British breast is the fear that Mr. Wilson might have done more good in Washington than he has done by coming to Europe."

"I heard Bernard Shaw declare:
"We won the war—the British navy won the war. He went on to say that Great Britain was quite ready to enter a league of nations, provided it retained this supreme power of whining whatever war it entered."

"As for France it certainly will insist on the rectification of the eastern frontier. As far as the Rhine and probably for some distance beyond, it will demand the creation of a zone permanently bare of fortifications and defenses. France wants also a free hand in Morocco, will probably insist on making a French dependency of Syria, and intends to make Germany powerless for the next half century at least."

"The nationalistic demands of Italy are not so clearly formulated nor is the government of King Emmanuel in such a strong position to enforce its demands, but they are not in harmony with the ideals of international brotherly love."

"It is probably impossible for any American to understand or appreciate the intensity of the feelings which the people of both Great Britain and France. They are war weary, but also bitter, revengeful, and determined not to give up or lose any part of what they have bought with the blood of their sons."

"It is unpleasant but necessary to call attention to the attitude of British newspapers toward the American military effort. The reviews of the last years of the war which I have read vary from no mention at all of the American forces in France to a tiny and casual paragraph."

"Recently there was printed an official statement of Field Marshal Haig
in which he declares: "This record furnishes proof of the overwhelmingly decisive part played by the British armies on the western front in bringing the enemy to his final defeat."

PROHIBITION FIGHT IS ON.
With the announcement that the federal prohibition amendment will be introduced into the legislature this week for preliminary steps toward ratification, comes the rumor that a resolution will be presented which will provide that the matter be put to a referendum vote.

This is the first move on the part of the wets to forestall immediate action on the prohibition measure. It is a political trick to delay as long as possible the state's entrance into the dry column.

Of course the table is set for the members of the legislature who are pledged to vote for the referendum to make capital of the opportunity for the people to say whether they want nation-wide prohibition or not.
It is a good argument for politicians and it will be used to the fullest extent in explanation of their votes.

The wets claim that they have a majority in the lower house, and will be able to pass the referendum resolution. In the senate the going will not be so good, and it is doubtful if such a measure will get by that branch of the legislative body.

However, both the action on the federal amendment and the proposed referendum resolution will furnish some royal battles when the session gets into full swing.

Some of the new legislators at Madison have sprung that time-honored joke which is to do with a wasp's nest. Already resolutions are being prepared for instruction, calling for a three months' session. It can't be done in Wisconsin.

Some of our neighbors devoted part of Sunday to a good cause. They got out their snow shovels and removed the dangerous, icy coating which has covered sidewalks since the first snow.
Others are pinning their faith on Old Sol.

New York police are treated like human beings. A club has been established for them where they may enjoy comforts and privileges which the ordinary custodians of the public know little.

PRESS COMMENTS.

A Horse on Somebody.
The law of supply and demand is a wonderful thing. Its tricks are clearly and carefully explained in text books. And it is a handy snuffer for public indignation when the price of necessities runs amuck. However, the text book, however, the text book
does not hold something out on us.

Example: Army horses that cost the government $17.50 are now being sold at auction at $75. In France on November 11 these animals—snug, sleek, fat and sound right here in the United States—were $17.50 horses.

In an instance they become $75

Invasion Not Recalled. That Great Britain is not planning to send any more troops to Russia. If that decision has been arrived at it is wise. The allied

there during the war were sent besufficient, but it has now ceased, with Normal Teachers Ask Raise.

Milwaukee.—Normal school teachers throughout the state plan to petition the legislature to grant them salary increases. The teachers point out that they have not had an increase that they were given, and insist that they are as much in need of higher pay as the grade and high school teachers. Action by the legislature is necessary.

Milwaukee normal teachers declare that teachers in adjoining states get higher pay than that given in Wisconsin.

Pioneer Circulator Dies.
Milwaukee.—Charles W. Durr, aged seventy, one of the oldest newspaper editors in Milwaukee, died of pneumonia following a nervous breakdown. He was prominent in Masonic circles and was a veteran of Wolcott Post, G. A. R.

Veteran Killed by Train.
Milwaukee.—Captain A. G. Peabody, aged 85, who resided at Wauwatosa, a suburb, was a pioneer Milwaukeean and civil war veteran. He was killed instantly by being struck by a passenger train at a crossing near his home. His skull was fractured.

Saves Mother; Escapes Prison.
Kenosha.—John Bangs, 17, who was arrested on a charge of attempting to murder his father, was discharged without a hearing following an investigation and the young man's claim that he shot his father only when he saw him attempting to kill his mother.

Secret Session Stopped.
Menasha.—Secret "back room sessions" of the aldermen previous to council meetings have been tabooed
by Mayor N. G. Remmel. The chief executive of the city insists that if aldermen have anything to talk over it be done in open meetings of the government body.

Mill Manager Killed.
Marinette.—J. E. Wank, 64, general manager of the Marinette Flouring Mill company, was fatally injured
on Saturday when he fell into an elevator shaft at the mill, was picked up unconscious and died a few hours later. Mr. Wank formerly was located at Brillion and Appleton and is survived by a wife, two sons and a daughter.

"On Wisconsin" Author Dying.
Madison.—William Purdy, who wrote "On Wisconsin," and other popular songs while a student at the University of Wisconsin, is dying of tuberculosis. Students of the university contributed $240 at an all-university convocation for Mr. Purdy. A letter was received from Carl Beck,
a Wisconsin alumnus, saying that Purdy and his family were practically destitute. Fraternities and sororities will assist the composer.

Taken to Internment Camp.
Wausau.—Charles Nagler, town of

Red Cross Workers Wanted.
Evansville, Jan. 13.—A new allotment of work has been received by the local Red Cross society. A rush order of a large number of women's blouses to be finished by Saturday of this week. The call is given for every woman who possibly can to meet in the Red Cross work rooms Tuesday and Thursday of this week so that this work may surely be finished by Saturday. As the boys are returning from overseas, they tell of the wonderful work that the Red Cross has done and still has to do, so that we know
the need is great for much work yet to be accomplished.

A Pleasant Party.
A number of friends of Mrs. Win-

The snooze of a lowly pedagogue
In the empire bed
Of the Prince Murat.
A famous snooze
With a snore which said
Or seemed to say:
"Ho-Ho! Ha-Ha!
Here's a sudden guest
From the rooming west
In the regal bed
Of the Prince Murat."
And the dreams which came to the pedagogue couch
On the haughty couch
Of the Prince Murat
We will have to guess:
But O, they were happy dreams,
La-la,
Which danced like Ned
Through the humble head
In the empire bed
Of the Prince Murat.
The shades of a hundred English
kings
Looked down on the bed
At Buckingham
Where the democrat
Lay his humble head.
And they whispered: "My word!
What has occurred
To old John Bull
And Uncle Sam
That in York may rest
Beside the great
On the head
Of a bed
At Buckingham?"

UNPUBLISHED HISTORY.
Charles I. walked out to the platform of the Tower and after a few words with the executioner laid his neck upon the block.
"Are you ready?" whispered the masked man who held the axe.
"I am," replied Charles. "Strike
well."

It was the calm, cold voice of the director.
"I have not placed the cameraman," the voice continued. "Hold that pose, please. Charles, and don't smile—DON'T SMILE. Now you, executioner, you hold that as though it were a carpet sweeper. How did you bust into this business, anyhow?
Now, pose. Good. Hold that. Re-

Japanese Rice Cultivation.
Twelve thousand square miles—7,

takes 135 days to grow a crop of rice,
and in Japan the laborious work of cultivation is done almost entirely by

REV. CLARK CUMMINGS PREACHES HIS LAST JANESVILLE SERMON

An inspiring sermon concerning the promises of Christ was preached yesterday morning at the Christian Church by Rev. Clark Cummings. The topic chosen was, "Entering Into Our Religion," and emphasis was laid on the thought that the promise made by Christ was of two parts and to receive the blessing promised by him, the recipient must do his share. It is as though he says: "I'll do this for you, if you will do this for me."

In taking up the topic, the speaker suggested that the majority of people had not touched the depths of religion, which they had professed to follow. They were not as "this" as the Latin, who had only gotten a smattering of grammar, and who in consequence disliked that study and thought it ought to be put out of school. Whereas as soon as he discovered its beauties of prose and poetry, and it became an inspiration and help to him.

He likened the casual Christian, to a visitor to the capitol at Madison, who from the outside sees a very ordinary building, and it is only when he enters and explores its hidden treasures of art that he really knows its beauty.

"It was in this way that to enjoy the beauties of the religion, one must delve deep down under the surface, and seek for hidden treasures."

In the same way that the best things of earth are not found on the surface," he said, "so on this side of the best things in religion are not found on the surface. The Book of Promises, was a strong statement made by him and backed up with many examples. He quoted passages of scripture in proving his point, and among them being: "Let not your heart be troubled," and "I will make you fishers of men."

He enumerated some of the things which must be given up when a man makes a definite and wonderful promise to accept Christ as his master, he said, but many blessings are given in return.

"With the rite of baptism the remission of sin is promised. With the Lord's table is linked the promise that he will come again." He thought that the fact that we could not understand things was not any reason for their being impossible, and "that all things are possible with God."

Among the promises which he suggested as being of a reciprocal nature were: "Ask and ye shall receive," "Knock and it shall be opened." All of these made a definite promise, but required specific things from the person concerned, he said.

Does God's Promise? In speaking of the different phases of life, the statement was made, that some people we could believe, and others we could not. "Sometimes," he said, "we assume the attitude toward God, that we don't take much stock in his promise." "We don't believe it because no one in the world could do it. God makes his promises and keeps them," he said, "he is most dependable, in all time, and throughout all eternity." In this connection he brought out the fact that there must be something back of a bank note, there must be the money in the bank. "In Christ," he said, "is the security of the promises made."

He quoted Exodus on ninety-five per cent work and five per cent talent, and said that the same things would hold true, in religious matters.

He closed by emphasizing the thought that one must follow the teachings of Christ and do as he desires, and then must have the boldness to go to Christ and say, "We have done thy work, in confidence and truth."

Mr. Bergman at the piano and a chorus choir rendered appropriate music.

Rev. Cummings leaves today for Chicago for visit of ten days or so, after which he takes up a charge at Flint, Michigan. Mrs. Cummings expects to stay in the city until Thursday, when she too will go to Chicago.

His many friends of Rev. Clark Cummings and his wife will wish their success and happiness in their new home.

The Girl Who Was Different

By EDITH M. LOCKETT

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Across the little lunch table at the Beltrize dining rooms Mary Burnup smiled and joked with her brother-in-law, Jim Wally. It was his treat to take his sister-in-law to her favorite dining place whenever she came to town on business. One could enjoy seclusion here, for each table was concealed on three sides by heavy velvet curtains.

Suddenly Mary stopped chattering a moment. "Listen! Why, Jim, I believe those men are talking about me."

"Well, we'll have none of that," replied Wally rising and looking slyly between the curtains in the direction from which the sound of the voices came. Mary rose, too. "Why, it's only Tom Monall," she said; "but that other, he isn't that great doctor, Neil Wyder, is he?"

"Reckon he is," Jim replied. Then they returned to their places and listened, for Mary wanted to hear.

"I tell you there's no one like her," Tom Monall was saying. "She has taken a man's place and filled it. Her brother is in France and she is the head of the Machinery Tool company."

"That so?" asked Wyder indifferently. "But as a rule the women of our set that I've met are hysterical, impractical lot. For nerve give me a man. Say, Tom, you're not in love, are you?"

"A lot of good it did me," answered Monall. "Mary Burnup told me just about what style of a man she'd marry when she got ready, and say, old man, I didn't fill the bill."

"Oh," whispered Mary. "Jim, I guess I've heard all I care to. Don't let's wait for dessert. Let's go."

"Sure," he said smiling. "But remember Tom didn't say anything that wasn't true, and remember Neil is prejudiced. Well, I'll meet you at four thirty this afternoon with the roadster and we'll ride out home together." So they parted and went their ways. It was just quarter to five o'clock when Wally met his sister-in-law. "Sorry I kept you waiting," he apologized, "but something was wrong with the steering gears and I had it looked at."

A moment later they were on their way, and Jim was teasing about Tom Monall. Suddenly his face grew sober. They were just descending what was known as Long hill. "Oh, Mary, I believe the steering gear has gone back on me!" he exclaimed.

"Put the brake on! Use the reverse!" she shouted. "Can't you stop the car, Jim?"

"Jump, Mary, jump!" he called, and Mary jumped and landed a crumpled little heap on the soft grass on the other side of the road.

When she opened her eyes and sat up she saw that the car had run into the sand embankment on the other side of the road. She saw Jim running about the road with blood flowing down one cheek, and crying that he was hurt. He was sure he had cut an artery. But for the life of her she felt as if she could not get up to do anything at all. Presently another car drew up, and who should step out but Tom Monall and Dr. Neil Wyder.

Mary drew her mouth into a firm little line, and though her feet ached and throbbed she vowed she would rather die than make one whimper before the man who had said: "When it comes to nerve, give me a man." The two saw her and ran up to her. "No, I'll be all right in a minute. Please won't you help Jim?" she said, and yet she felt she must scream with the pain in her feet.

They had Jimmie's face patched up in a short while. It was nothing very serious, the doctor said. "Now if you'll come in my car," he added, "we'll take you right home."

"If you'd just give me your hand," said Mary. "I'm afraid I've hurt my foot a little." Neil Wyder looked into her big brown eyes a moment. A strange feeling took possession of him. Then without a word he placed his arm about her to help her rise, and as he did so the girl gave a short, breathless gasp and fainted.

"Why, she has two badly sprained ankles," he said, when he had examined them. "Nerve! Why, the girl's a wonder!" he exclaimed. "Who is she?"

"That's Mary Burnup," said Tom Monall.

They say that Neil Wyder did not lose much time in getting better acquainted with Mary, and even after she was quite well and needed his professional services no longer, he still had a great deal of business to do with her. It wasn't a great while, either, before he asked her the one big question, "You're so different," he said, "so wonderful."

"Oh!" she said as she snuggled up close to him, "no, not that. I'm just like everyone else, and if it hadn't been for what you said about men having nerve I believe I'd have cried out, and maybe acted foolish like Jim."

He didn't ask her just what she meant, but murmured something about that it must have been before he knew her. She must have answered the one big question very satisfactorily, for he had his arm around her. Then he, the man who had once said that the women of his set were hysterical, impractical lot, and "give him a man for nerve," kissed the girl, who seemed so wonderfully lovely, who was to him, and always would be, "the girl who was different."

BRILLIANT COSTUMES AT CHARITY BALL

Miss Genevieve Glendenin in "Carnaval de Victoire" costume.

The Carnaval de Victoire, held at the Ritz-Carlton hotel ball room, New York, recently, proved a gorgeous affair of stunning gowns and beautiful women. The ball was for the benefit of the free milk for France fund. Society and stage folk mingled in elaborate gowns. The photo shows Miss Genevieve Glendenin, popular society bud, wearing one of the most attractive costumes of the evening.

DOUBLE ATTRACTION IS GIVEN AT MYERS

The Myers Theatre presents a double attraction for four days this week which should play to capacity houses. The Charles Breckenridge Stock company is here for a series of plays and the Kilties band will precede the regular performances with a concert. The engagement opened Sunday afternoon and will close Thursday night. The Kilties opened the performance last night with a splendid concert which pleased the house. Jamie Clark, with the bagpipes and in Irish dances (furnished added amusement for the audience. J. Coates Lockhart, tenor, rendered some splendid solos. He has a good voice. This is the first appearance of the Kilties in this city in 18 years. The band is making a tour under the direction of T. P. J. Power who has been with them many years.

"For Humanity's Sake" was the title of the play given by the Breckenridge players. It was a story of a contest between capital and labor, and held the interest of the audience until the final curtain. The play was well dressed and the actors cleverly interpreted their parts.

FEDERATION OF DANUBE STATES NOW BEING DISCUSSED

Shaded portion of map indicates sections involved in the proposed formation of a Danube federation.

The dismemberment of Austria has revived the idea of a Danube federation along the lines urged by Kossuth in the middle of the nineteenth century.

According to the Hungarian patriot the states bordering on the Danube river had common interests economically and for the most part racially and should federalize. The present movement toward a union of the new states forming from the disrupted Hapsburg monarchy has hardly assumed any definite shape, but has been discussed at Paris among the various representatives assembling for the peace conferences from the Balkan region and to the north.

Among the states grouping themselves racially as members of the Slavic race are Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, the latter including Serbia, Montenegro, Herzegovina, Croatia, Bosnia and Slavonia.

Roumania and Hungary, while not of the Slavic race, would be expected to join the proposed federation for political reasons. Bulgaria also would be invited to join as soon as the Sofia government had met the conditions imposed by the peace conference.

Geographically such a union of states would form a barrier between Russia and Germany, through central Europe, from the Baltic to the waters of the Mediterranean and Black seas.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Jan. 13.—Harold Sutton arrived home the last of the week from New York and will spend a ten-day furlough in the city. He enlisted in the navy in November, 1917, to serve on a mine sweeper and when he arrived in foreign waters was transferred to the torpedo destroyer Samster. This boat holds the world's record for distance covered during the war, having traveled over 100,000 miles. Harold has seen 14 months of service in the war zone. His home town is Edgerton. His home town is Edgerton. His home town is Edgerton.

Private Oscar Hanson who was recently transferred from Camp Hancock, Ga. to Camp Grant has been discharged and arrived home last of the week.

Among those from out of the city who were in attendance at the funeral of the late Mrs. Coon, yesterday, were Mrs. Mary Burdick of Madison, Mrs. C. M. Morse and D. Coon of Milton and Fred Bentley of Chicago.

Private Harry McCann is now at the base hospital at Camp Grant. Private McCann was one of the first boys in the city to enlist in the local platoon and was wounded in action in France.

Private Henry Biesman arrived home the last of the week from Camp Grant where he was mustered out of service.

There will be an adjourned meeting this evening of the members of the Congregational church. The treasurer's report will be submitted and other important business of the year will come before the meeting.

The rank of ensign will be conferred this evening at the K. K. Kluge. Miss Loreta Lucy, a former teacher in our schools, was a week-end visitor from Madison.

Mrs. J. S. Miller and children of Madison are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pomroy.

The ladies of the Fulton Center Red Cross will be entertained at the home of Peter Fox on Thursday, Jan. 16.

Doctor Prescribes Vinol

For This Weak, Nervous Mother, Because He Knows the Formula.

Jacksonville, Ill.—"I have a twenty-months old baby and keep house for my little family, but got into a weak, nervous, run-down condition, tired at the time and no ambition. My doctor told me to try Vinol and in a week I felt like a new person. I am now strong again, look after my baby, and do all my housework."—Mrs. G. H. Lamson.

The reason we recommend Vinol, is because it is a constitutional remedy, containing beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates, the most successful tonics known. Smith Drug Co., Vinol is sold in Jacksonville by W. J. Smith, and druggists everywhere.

with contemptuous irony. "But that's your business, not mine. Mrs. Kip is my business and I don't intend to have her subjected to your—your attentions. I'm trying to be neutral, but by— Well, I've warned you. Good day!"

Bayard joined Lella in the vestibule and they went up in the elevator together. She waited till they were in their own apartment before she demanded an account of the conversation.

He told her in a rage and she flew into another. She divided her wrath between Bayard and Daphne. There was enough for both. Daphne tried to escape, but, being cornered, proceeded to fight back, whereupon Lella denounced her to Bayard and told of her ride with Duane.

It was a right good fight and getting well beyond the bounds of discretion when the telephone announced that Clay Wimburn was calling.

Nobody imaginable would have been welcome in that battlefield, but Clay seemed peculiarly ill timed. Bayard went to the telephone and called down:

"Tell him we're out."

"Yes, sir."

Evidently the telephone was taken from the hallman's hand; for Clay's voice roared in Bayard's ear:

"I hear you, you old villain. I know you're in, and I'm coming up. It's a matter of life and death. I'm on my way up now."

It seemed decenter that Lella and Daphne should disappear, since Bayard had said that they were all out. The women retreated to Lella's room as a good coin of audition.

When Bayard opened the door Clay swept in like a March gale. He flung himself at Bayard and clenched his elbows in his hands and roared:

"Bayard! Bayard! It's come! We're rich! We're made! Eureka! Unneeded! Munitions! Wow! Listen! The other night while I was trailing a job in darkest New Jersey I ran across a little clue, and a little man who told me a little secret. The Germans have been getting ready for this war for years, piling up guns and ammunition for Der Tag. The other countries were caught only half ready. They have stopped the Germans on the Marne, but they've been using their shells at such a rate that the famine is near. Their only hope is to buy supplies of us. They're going to dump enough contracts on this country to furnish about a million dollars to every citizen. Their agents are pussy-footing round to distribute contracts quickly."

"The Bethlehem Steel company has gathered in a big lot of them, and I had a tip that the stock was going to boom; so I got a lot of other stocks. I'd sell my right arm for a little cash. But there's no market for detached right arms, so I used mine to sign up a few little contracts for placing contracts, and I've plucked them and brought them to you." He broke into dance and whirled Bayard off his feet.

Bayard tried to be patient. "That's all very interesting, Clay, but take your delusions down to Bellevue, where they'll put you in the right cell. What can you or I do with ammunition contracts?"

"Accept 'em, you blamed idiot! Open up your old shut-up factory and get busy!"

"We have no machinery for making ammunition."

"Get it then, or adapt your machinery! They need millions of each article, for there are millions of men in the field using up what they've got so fast that it's only a matter of weeks before they'll be desperate."

Bayard began to see the scheme—also the obstacles. "But it takes money to make those things. Where will we get the cash for the pay rolls and the raw materials?"

"From the banks! The banks are bursting open with idle money; it's rotting on their hands!"

Bayard went aglow with the realization of the opportunity. He began to tremble at the vision of the sudden avalanches of wealth pouring down the bleak mountains of despair. He could hear the roar of the Niagara of gold.

Daphne and Lella came rushing from concealment. Clay's beatitude was so complete that he forgot his reservations and kissed them both.

Bayard was frantic to be at work. He resolved to telephone the president of his company at once and lay the matter before him. Lella cannily advised Bayard to grasp the whip hand of the situation and keep it. She began to dance about the room like a Minnie celebrating the passage of the Red Sea.

"The first thing we'll do," she said, "will be to get my jewelry out of the pawnshop and the second will be to buy some more. And, oh, the dresses and the hats!"

This assumed a sobering effect on Bayard, and he announced, "We're gone through," "hades, once because I gambled away my reserves. This time I'm going to get a big reserve before I spend a cent. I'll never risk another ordeal like the one we've been through. No more fractures of the Thirteenth for me!"

Lella laughed.

Bayard went to the telephone to start the wheels of the factory in motion by summoning the president to council. He paused to ask: "Hell want to know who the foreign agent is you're dealing with? Or are there several? Who shall I say?"

"Wetherell," said Clay.

The great Skoda gun that suddenly one day dropped a monster shell in Dunkirk twenty miles off could hardly have caused more stupefaction than the name of Wetherell detonating in that room.

Daphne snatched her hand from Clay's. Bayard sprang up so sharply that he almost threw Lella forward on her face. Instinctively he caught her by the arm and saved her from falling. But instantly he flung her arm from him in a gush of disgust.

Clay gaped at the tableau in bewilderment. He had not dreamed that any of the three had ever heard of Wetherell. He could not imagine the bitterness the name involved.

"Will some kind friend please tell me what all the excitement is about?"

This was not easy. Who wanted to tell Clay that Lella had just been accused of neglecting her husband and her own duties for the society of this very Wetherell? Lella herself was the one that told him.

"Look here, Bayard," Lella cooed and blurted, "don't you think you've done enough? You've shown me that you don't trust me and you've ordered Mr. Wetherell never to come near me again. Isn't that enough without begrudging us all for spite? What else is it but cheap, nasty spite?"

"It's a great deal more than spite," Bayard groaned. "Do you think I'll accept favors from a man who has been courting you and got caught at it? I'd rather starve!"

"Well, I wouldn't!" Lella averred. "And I'm not going to starve. And I'm not going to let you commit harlequin on Wetherell's doorstep just to spite him. I tell you again, once for all, there was nothing wrong in Wetherell's behavior, absolutely nothing. It's outrageous that you should accuse me of such horrible things."

So Bayard was coerced into having his life saved by his enemy. It was one thing, however, to consent to deal with Wetherell, and another to devise a tolerable reconciliation.

"Well," Bayard sighed, "beggars can't be choosers. If I saved my money I shouldn't have to take Wetherell's money."

Bayard called up the president of his company at the office. His oration made a huge success. Bayard began to smile to himself, to wink at the spectators, and finally to share in the apparent capture of his distant ear-to-ear.

The end of the matter was that when Bayard left the telephone he was a new man. He had cunningly raised his chief's hopes to the highest degree, yet withheld the name of the English agent. He explained that he intended to take Lella's advice, and

Nothing Like Plain Bitter-Phosphate to Put On Firm Healthy Flesh and To Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised and sold, the process of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly, drooping features by soft, curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need as much nourishment as contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among the druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Smith Drug Co. in Jacksonville, and almost all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food element, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

So Bayard Was Coerced Into Having His Life Saved by His Enemy.

Clay and Bayard sat down to make figures, and the talk grew too technical for the women to endure. After hearing the first music of Bayard and Clay chanting in hundreds of thousands of dollars Daphne stole out unheeded and went up to her own room.

Mr. Chivvis was sitting by a window in mournful idleness. Mrs. Chivvis was stitching away at her embroidery. She was cheerful—for her. She told Daphne that she had found a market for her needlework; the prices were poor but they were real. She advised Daphne to get to work with her.

Daphne had not the courage to say that her brother and her betrothed were about to become plutocrats. She said only that she was very tired. And there is no more exhausting drain on the nerves than their response to unexpected good news. It is more fatiguing than bad. She was surprised and shocked, too, to find how ennobled she was all of a sudden about the petty earnings of a Chivvis.

Dinner Stories

A Chicago man was walking through a foreign quarter of his city when, with an amused smile, he stopped in front of a small eating place, on the window of which was painted in white, "Lam Steu."

Now the proprietor happened to be standing in the doorway, and when he saw the smile of the gentleman who stopped in front of his place he asked to be favored with an explanation of the joke.

Whereupon the other explained about the missing "y" in "Lamb" and the proprietor accepted the correction in good part, at the same time expressing his thanks.

When next the Chicago man passed that restaurant he found that the missing "y" had been changed, but that the lesson in orthography had not been forgotten. The proprietor was now offering "Clamb Chowder."

In Montana, a railway bridge had been destroyed by fire, and it was necessary to replace it. The bridge engineer and his staff were ordered in haste to the place. Two days later came the superintendent of the division. Alighting from his private car, he encountered the old master bridge builder.

"Bill," said the superintendent, "and the words quivered with energy—"I want this job rushed. Every hour's delay costs the company money. Have you got the engineer's plans for the new bridge?"

"No, sir," said the bridge builder, "whether the engineer has the picture drawn yet or not, but the bridge is up, and the trains is passing over it."

Evansville, News

The Evansville Resumé reached the Gazette office too late to be published in the Review of Saturday.

Evansville, Jan. 11.—The year 1918 has passed and the new year 1919 entered upon its career, the record of whose events are as yet an unsealed book to us.

Few who have lived through the past year will ever forget the year 1918, and the history-making events that crowded upon the other as the year progressed.

The one bright spot in the year 1918, is the memorable date of Nov. 11, the cessation of hostilities and the laying down of arms by the enemy.

Due to the dark days of war and the request of the government for conservation and frugality, the year 1918 marks no great outward growth in the city of Evansville. No erection of new buildings or additions to old buildings was done. No great branching out in business interests was attempted. Labor and supplies and materials of all kinds were needed by the government for the maintenance of its army and navy, so private business interests were obliged to follow very conservative plans.

During the past year the D. E. Wood Butter company have made additions to their plant and a great change in their business. They have now entered the field of manufacturing oleomargarine. Robert Pearl was made manager of the plant here, during the past year, and so great has been the increase in their business that two work shifts are now run, a night shift as well as a day workers. Further additions are planned for the enterprise during the coming year.

Another new business interest entered upon during the past year is the Evansville Creamery company, conducted in the building owned by the Farmers' Milk company, near the Northwestern station. This business is conducted by Kostakos and Kourakos, who came to Evansville from Chicago. They handle between 15,000 and 20,000 pounds of milk each day, and this milk is daily shipped to Chicago.

Brunsell and Fellows, dealers in grain, feed and hay, have leased the old Baldwin feed mill during the past year and are now grinding great quantities of feed for farmers in this vicinity.

The city had begun many new improvements in the power house during the latter part of the year 1917, and expected to continue improvements during the past year. At that time two new boilers were installed and new additions built to the plant. Now that the war is over and the ban lifted, it is expected many more improvements will be made during the coming year.

The Fisher Grain and Feed company have made great increase in their business during the past year, for during this time this company has shipped between eight and ten carloads of wheat, grown by the farmers in this vicinity. This is a new venture for it has been many years since wheat has been grown in this community. They also expect greater development along this line during the coming year.

Evansville as a city has no great buildings to point to in later years telling that they were erected in 1918. No large business interests were entered upon this past year, but it has been a year of great activity and patriotism that is second to none. In every one of the four Liberty loans the citizens of this city and vicinity subscribed many thousands of dollars toward the amount required for the amount raised for "Your Share is Fair" received loyal support from the people of Evansville. Every request made by the government upon the people was met with hearty cooperation by every citizen here. So that if private interests were put in the background during the past year, and no great civic improvements, finance and patriotism stands as a memorial for the year 1918.

Fiery Eczema and Skin Eruptions Readily Yield to This Old Remedy

Successfully used for 50 years.

Eczema and similar skin troubles come from a disordered, impure condition of the blood, and they can only be cured by giving the blood a thorough cleansing, and removing from it all traces of impurity.

This is why S. S. S. has been used so successfully in hundreds of cases of Eczema and other skin eruptions. This wonderful remedy is without an equal as a blood purifier, being probably the oldest blood medicine on the market. It has been sold by druggists for fifty years. Get a bottle today and begin treatment that will get results.

You are invited to write to-day for complete and full advice as to the treatment of your own case. Address, Chief Medical Adviser, Swift Specific Co., Dept. H, Atlanta, Georgia.

She is as popular as ever now that her skin is clear

Don't be denied the society of your friends—cooped up in a hot, stuffy house—all because you are ashamed of a skin that is blotchy and disfigured by ugly red spots. This discoloration and pimply appearance may be speedily relieved by Resinol Ointment. Its gentle soothing medication usually arrests the complaint after a few applications. Its steady and proper use seldom fails to restore normal skin health in the most aggravated cases.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap may be obtained at all druggists.
